Geriatric Care Services

Designed to help the elderly and their families meet the challenges of aging in one's own home.

Peace of Mind

Imagine knowing that your loved one's care is based upon expert advice, tailored to his or her specific needs and delivered in a dignified, respectful and compassionate manner.

Our services include:

- Assessment of medical, psychological, social and resource/entitlement status
- Development of a personalized plan of care with recommendations and referrals for necessary services and assistance with implementation
- On-going monitoring, evaluation and care coordination
- Emergency management and education
- Counseling and psychotherapy services
- Liaison with out of town family caregivers

We work closely with medical, financial, and legal professionals in the community as well as with for-profit and non-profit social service agencies.

When should you contact us?

- For professional support in managing chronic health conditions that may require changes in daily routines such as giving up driving a car or bathing independently and/or structural changes to the home environment
- If you see changes in your loved one's mood and behavior, ability to make safe decisions, increased confusion, poor appetite and weight loss, incidents of falls, or withdrawal from social activity
- To avoid "burnout" from the overwhelming responsibilities of caregiving which can lead to exhaustion, irritability, depression and susceptibility to illness.
- At the time of a hospitalization or change in medical condition that affects his or her ability to resume prior level of functioning

Jewish Home at Home is a non-profit 501(C)3, fee for service program. Long term care insurance coverage may apply.

Jewish Home at Home is a non-sectarian program open to all seniors regardless of race, religion or ethnic origin. Subsidies may be available for those eligible.

Why should you contact us?

- The geriatric care manager educates the senior and family about the network of services available including free or low cost community services for which the senior may qualify.
- Short term and long term care planning leads to informed decisions that utilize financial resources for maximum benefit.
- Working with a care manager can reduce time away from work and fewer "emergency" trips for family caregivers who live out of state.
- Our geriatric care managers improve communication and coordination among family members, physicians and professional caregivers.

Our Care Managers are licensed social workers or nurses with specialized training in geriatrics. They are members of the National Association of Professional Geriatric Care Managers and are dedicated to upholding the association's high ethical standards.
